Fine Tuning the Body!

Join us for a day of interaction that challenges, strengthens, inspires, and propels Conference Related Ministries (CRMs) and congregations to develop deeper relationships and ministry collaboration.

In 1st Corinthians 12 Paul calls for parts of the body to value one another and start recognizing the need each has for the other. How can congregations and CRMs achieve peak performance and avoid amputation?

Speaker Phil Bergey will cast a vision for the relationships between area churches and agencies and will lead panel discussions of both pastors and agency CEOs. Conrad Kanagy will help unpack the data received from a survey of pastors and CEOs to develop ways of building collaboration between these two arms of the Church.
Phil Bergey, PhD, PCC spent his first adult decade as a business partner in what is now a 4-generation family business in southeastern PA. From there he finished a BA in history at Eastern Mennonite University and Goshen College, and an MA in Theological Studies at Anabaptist Mennonite Biblical Seminary. Phil later obtained a certificate in Evidence Based Coaching, an MA in Human Development, and a PhD in Human & Organizational Systems from Fielding Graduate University in Santa Barbara, CA. Phil’s doctoral dissertation was “Leading Sheep or Herding Cats?: How Mennonite Pastors Describe Their Role in Leading Planned Organizational Change.” Phil also served as part-time interim lead pastor for Blooming Glen Mennonite Church in Montgomery County, PA. Phil currently is a partner with Design Group International with a focus on executive leadership coaching and organizational process consulting.
